TEXAS. EXCITEMENT AMONG THE HAMILTON REPUBLI-

CANS—RESIGNATION OF GOV. PEASE.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 3.—The action of Messrs. Boutwell and Cresswell and of Gen. Reynolds toward the Hamilton Republicans of Texas has produced great indignation through the State. Gov. Pease, Judge Bell, and many other leading Republicans will take the stump for Hamilton at once. The following is the Governor's letter of resignation : EXECUTIVE OFFICE, AUSTIN. Sept. 30, 1860.

Breest Major. Gen. J. J. REYNOLDS, Communiting Fifth

Military District.

GENERAL: The substance of a letter from yourself to President Grant has recently been published, in which opinions are expressed concerning the two parties in Texas that call themselves Republican which I do not consider warranted by the course that has been pursued by these parties during the progress to reconstruction. This letter indorses Gen. Davis and his followers, who, whatever may be their present profession, have heretofore made the most strennous and factions efforts to prevent the adoption of any Constitution by our late Central Committee and to induce Congress to delay the reconstruction of the State. It also condemns Gen. Hamilton and his supporters, among whom are not less than eightenths of the educated Republicans of the State, through whose influence a Constitution was adopted by the Committee that secures to every eitizen a perfect equality of civil and political rights. Since the date of the letter referred to the Administration at Washington is reported to have removed from office many of the Republicans in Texas who are supporting Gen. Hamilton and filled their places with supporters of Gen. Davis, and it is now understood that the influence and patronage of the Military Commander of this State and of the Administration at Washington are being used in behalf of those Republicans who have exerted themselves to delay and defeat the reconstruction of the State, and against those Republicans who have in good faith used this influence to carry out its reconstruction strictly in accordance with the laws, who have succeeded in that object so far as the measure has been allowed to progress. It is well known that I was appointed to the position I occupy without being consulted. In accepting it, I was influenced solely by a desire to aid in carrying out the policy of Congress, which I consider to be the formation of a Constitution giving equal civil and political rights to all citizens, and the election of efficiency who would administer it in good faith to secure that object. I h Military District.
GENERAL: The substance of a letter from yourself to THE CAMPAIGN IN TEXAS-PROSPECTS OF HAM-ILTON.

GALVESTON, Texas, Oct. 2.-Provisional Gov. Pease sent in his resignation yesterday, and will take the stump for Hamilton. The action of Gen. Reynoids and the Administration regarding Texas affairs will cause 20 more Republican speakers to take the field for the Hamilton ticket. Preparations are being made for a grand Hamilton demonstration here to-morrow.

THE REIGN OF TERROR-ANOTHER CHAPTER IN THE DEMOCRATIC BOOK OF OUTRAGE-THE RIOTING AT FIFTH AND CHESTNUT.

At last, that which so long has threatened, At last, that which so long has threatened, has become a matter of fact in the history of Philadelphia. Ever since the inauguration of a Mayor not elected by the people, but belstered into the position by the stuffing of ballot-boxes, by repeaters and roughs imported for that special purpose from New-York, Baltimore, and other places, aided by the cut-throats, pickpeckets, thieves and shoulder-hitters of this place, the history of the City of Brotherly Love has been written in blood. The work of assassus has been done, not only at high, but he the of Brotherly Love has been written in blood. The work if assassins has been done, not only at night, but in the groad glare of the neonday sun, an uneffection officer of the United States Government is shot on one of our prinis a states dovernment is shot on one of our printishess thoroughfares, the opening of the present campaign the "unter-have resorted to their old friends and allies, the rified" have resorted to their old friends and allies, the pistol and the knife.

Their outrages finally culminated in a bloody rfot about 10½ o'clock last night, the details of which will forever stain the pages of Philadelphia's history, and which, in result, deserve to outrank any previous riots, excepting only those of 1844. The night had been fixed for the parade of the organization known as the Keystone Club. It had also been selected some days ago for the holding of a Republican mass meeting by the citizens of the Second Ward, at Jefferson-ave, and Washington-st., which the Republican Invincibles had been invited and solicited to attend.

Second Ward, at Jefferson-ave, and Washington-se, which the Republican Invincibles had been invited and solicited to attend.

At 80°clock the latter-named club left their headquarters at Fifth and Library-sts, and marched to the place named. After remaining there a short time they returned to their quarters and dismissed. A short time after the departure of the Invincibles, the Keystone Club marched past the Invincibles' headquarters, with the evident purpose of provoking a quarrel, but their intended victims were then squares away on their march to the meeting named. About 10:20 o'clock the tolling lof a bell, mounted on a furniture car, announced to such parties as happened to be in the neighborhood of Fifth and Chostnut-sts, the approach of the Keystones.

The facts of the case were as follows: The Invincibles, whom High Constable Clark and a detail of police had accompanied all the evening, had returned to their headquarters at Fifth and Library-sts, and had extinguished the lights and locked up the building. Many of the members had gone to their homes, others were passing up Fifth-st. When the line reached that thoroughfare on Chestnut-st, all was quiet, and as the first company of the Keystone arrived above the water fountain nearest Fifths a rush was made from the street at the crowd on the pavement. During this temporary halt the lighted lamps were used pretty freely overshe heads of the lookers-on. The line again moved, and as the last company were crossing Fifth-st., another rush was made opposite the fountain; and just at this time Archibald Potter, who was in the rear of the procession, cried out, "Come back!" and furning round, struck a gentleman in the mouth, knocking him down. High Constable Clark seized the offender and ran him into the Central Station. This unprovoked attack was the signal for a grand rush of the Keystoners.

the rear of the procession, cried out, "Come back," and Jurning round, struck a gentleman in the mouth, knocking him down. High Constable Clark seized the offender and ran him into the Central Station. This improvoked attack was the signal for a grand rush of the Keystoners down Chestnut-st., and into Fifth, where they commenced an indiscriminate fusilade of pistol shots.

The small force of detectives who were on duty at the Central Station placed their badges on their coats and attempted to press back the rabble, but their efforts proved as futile as a mouse trying to pull back an elephant. The crowd pressed on, and on reaching the law office adjoining the Philadelphia Library structure they were checked by a volley of shots from the recess in front of the library building. This check was only temporary, for the representatives of the Democracy were now maddened, and they discharged their weapons and pressed on. Their shots went down the street, where not a soul was standing, for it must be known that there was not an Invincible to be seen in or around their headquarters, which had been deserted about half an hour before. All the firing from down the street came from the recess above referred to, and the number engaged in it was certainly very small, as no one could be observed, and the only evidence that anybody was there at all was from the flashes of the weapons as they were discharged. After the first volley the Keystoners, headed by a rather thim fellow with a heavy black beard and mustache, pressed forward, but another volley from the men behind the wall not only inalted them, but sent them back hurriedly toward Chestnut-st. Here another rally was made, and with the same result, the balls flying thick and fast in their ranks, some of these missiles struck the outside of the detective office, one went through the keystones were firing, with the seanty force of offiers in their midst endeavoring to make arrests. High Constable Clark, with a remarkable degree of courage, was doing good service between the nd that a ball had passed through his coat-sleeve, gra arm. He looked to see what damage had been done, and found that a bail had passed through his coat sleeve, grazing the fiesh. He then resamed his post, and in company with Detectives Kelsh, Moore, Burns, and Roberts, endeavored to push the rowdies back, but they would not go, and again rushed down the street. By that time the party behind the wall had disappeared, and the crowd ran further down, only to return to Chestnut-st., and after a consultation, in face of a goodly number of officers, who had been collected together, they proceeded to the headquarters of the Invincibles as a set fire to the handsome transparency in front of the building, and it was consumed in a very short space of time.

While the party was engaged in plying the forck, another squad was heaving bricks through the wadows of the calces on the lower floor and of the room occupied by the Invincibles. Some of these weapons of destruction demolished one of the large lamps at the entrance door. Cheer upon cheer rent the air upon the execution of these cowardly sets, and being satisfied, the brave fellows marched up the airest, passing the same squad of officers, making the air ring with their wild huzzas. Not one airest was made, though Detective Kelsh there received a pretty severe beating over the head with lamps. The casualities of the row, as far as we are able to learn them, foot up eight shot and wounded, with several others whose ranness we could not obtain.

Wm. A. Barrett, residing at No. 612 Marchall-st., a citizen, while burrying to get away from the fracas, was shot in the head, the ball entering the right side and coming out at the top. He was taken into the Central Station and from thence conveyed to the hospital. Frank White, residing at Fifteenth and Sanson-sts., a member of the Keystone Club, received a ball in his left breast. He was taken to the hospital. George G. James, residing at No. 867. North Ninth-st., received a terrible gash on the left side of his neck from a knife. He was conveyed to his nome. A citizen named Paul, residing on Fourth-st., near Byrnee, was shot by some dastard, who confronted him and drawing a revolver let fly. The ball entered his chest. He was conveyed to the drug store at Fifth and Byrnee-sts., and then to his home. Wm. De Groot, residing at No. 1,100 Division-st., was struck on the foot with a brick. A young man named Cooper received an usiy wound in the cheek. Reserve Officer Wm. Carson, while standing at Fifth and Chestnesi-sts., received a ball in his leg.

High Constable Clark, as soon as possible, directed the drunken had named William Shuster, who insisted upor remaining on the ground and yelling at the top of his voice. During the height of the melec, the Keystoners used the battle slegan of "Remember 1866." This once shouted soon extended along the line and in a few seconds was in the mouth of every one.

A BULL CHASE-EXCITING SCENES IN THE

STREETS. Early last evening a bull confined in a slaughter-hosse in Forty-second-st. broke out and started down tows. Going through Third-ave., the Bowery, Baxter, and Roosevelt-sts., he attracted the attention of a largenumber of boys and men, who joined in the chase. The fowd increased in numbers, until at least 500 persors were running and yelling in pursuit of the new infriated animal. He ran into Chatham-st., through to Nassan and Fulton-st., and thence into William-st., and from there into Beekman-st. Here an attempt was made to kill him by policemen, who fired several shots, the only effect of which was to exasperate him still more. He then ran up William-st. Chambers-st., thence to New-Bowery, and into Chatham-square, where the nob circled around him (at a respectful distance, however), while the police made several futile attempts to kill him. Shots were fired at and into him but without result. Rumors were now rife of the flying bullets maiming and killing citizens at a distance, and there seemed to be but little to choose in the chance for life between the pistols of the policemen and the horns of the bull. In Chatham-square the seene was most exciting. Men, women, and children assembled there in crowds, but the bull made another dash and scattered the masses in all directions, armed as they were with musicist, revolvers, clubs, &c. From Chatham-st. the bull ran into Roosevitst., where a barricade of wagons was hastily constructed and an attempt made to "corner" him, but before he could be either caught, shot, or stunned, the mob, which had swollen to at least 2,000 broke through the slender line of police grearding it and started the animal once more, this time down Roosevelt-st to South, and down South to Burling-silp, and thence into Liberty, and through the latter street into Broadway, and from there up Park-row to New Chambers-st, where near the corner of Chatham-st., he was laid low and quickly dispatched. Passing up Park-row, Officers Logan, Wandling and O'Conner of the Fourtt Precinct pressed into their service one of Dodd's express wagons and followed the buil up to where he was shot, the latter officer firing the ball which proved fatal. The number of persons known to be injured is comparatively small when the crowded condition of the streets through which the animal ran is taken into consideratively small when the crowded condition of the streets through which the animal ran is taken into consideratively small when the coveded condition of the streets through which the animal ran is taken into consideratively sm made to kill him by policemen, who fired several shots, the only effect of which was to exasperate

Everything wore a more cheerful aspect in and about Wall-st. on Saturday. There were very few transactions in gold reported, the habitues of the Gold Exchange confining themselves to settling up the business of the fatal Friday. The appearance of the long-looked for statements was like sunshine after a heavy storm, and every speculator in the precious mint drops breathed freer. It is believed, unless some unforeseen calamity shall happen, that the Gold Exchange Bank will be shall happen, that the Gold Exchange Bank will be ready to disburse the balances due by Tuesday or Wednesday, and then there will be straight sailing. Several more failures were reported, one of which was on account of the defalcation of a cierk. It is now ascertained that the banks were not affected in the least, nor would the panic have been felt in commercial circles except for the closing of the Gold Exchange Bank. The street operators are beginning to assume their wonted air of galety, and there is very little evidence of their ever having been so disastrons a panic. Maledictions against Fisk, jr., and Jay Gould have ceased, all being content to let them have all the rope they desire. A score or more of hard drinkers patronize the bare extensively not being able to quiet their nerves, and believing the only way to keep their spirits up is by pouring others down. By to-morrow it is expected that matters and things will again be lovely and the terrible ordeal that so many have passed through will be looked upon as a nine day's wonder.

NEWBURGH AND MIDLAND RAILROAD.

On Friday evening a large number of citizens favorable to the construction of the proposed Newburgh and Midland Railroad assembled at the Court-House at Newburgh to devise measures for the carrying out of that project. Mayor Clark presided, and in addressing the meeting referred to previous meetings over dressing the meeting referred to previous meetings over which he had presided, which had been organized to advance various railroad undertakings, but which had effected nothing. A committee furnished a detailed report of the survey, also the plans and profiles. The route as surveyed is 25 miles in length. From Newburgh to Walden there are about six miles of ascending grade, three miles descending grade, and not quite one mile on a level. From Walden to the intersection with the Midland there are eight miles of ascending grade, six miles of descending grade, and two and a half miles of level grade. The maximum grade from Newburgh to the "Summit" is 56 feet per mile. West of the "Summit" it is considerably less. The maximum curvature is four degrees, or a radius of 1,433 feet. The whole distance of straight line is 20 miles, and the distance of curvature is five miles. Several prominent gentlemen addressed the five miles. Several prominent gentlemen addressed the meeting, including Mr. Littlejohn. A Committee of Five was appointed to solicit subscriptions, as recommended in the report of the Committee.

EXPLOSION AT THE OLEOPHINE WORKS, GREEN-

About noon on Saturday an explosion occurred in the Oleophine Works at Newtown Creek, near Greenpoint, L. I., caused by an attempt to fill a still, the pipes which leaked. The stillman, Michael McDermott, was told by a man of the same name that the pipes leaked. This was treated with derision, and McDermott went to the furnace and opened the door to replenish the fire. No sooner, however, had he done so, than the gasoline, escaping from the pipes, exploded with a fearful detonation, shaking all the buildings in the neighborhood. McDermott, who so recklessly ran into the danger of which he had been warned, was thrown violently back to the far side of the building, his face, neck, arms, and legs being badly burned. Another stillman, Michael McCormick, in the building at the time, was also severely burned, but not so seriously as McDermott. Fortunately, the fire did not spread, or the contents of several tanks containing about 8,000 barrels of oil, must have been consumed, together with an oil-refluery adjoining. Beyond a slight damage to the still, and the injuries sustained by the two men, no loss resulted. told by a man of the same name that the pipes leaked.

A BARON IN TROUBLE.

Baron Henri de Riviere, a gay lothario who made himself notorious during the war as an agent for the Rebel Government, has been followed to this city by a Parislau belle, named Helen Stillé, who charges him a Parisiau belle, named Helen Stillé, who charges him with having seduced her under the promise of marriage, and of having defrauded her of $7,500. In her affidavit she says that she lived in Paris with him as his wife for over two years, after which he induced her to accompany him to Lima, Peru. They remained in South America but a short time, when they returned to Paris. Here the Baron tired of his companion and decamped for this country. She arrived a few days ago and ascertaming his wroreabouts, went before Justice Downing and narrated her woes. Subsequently an order for De Riviere's arrest was issued from the Superior Court, and on Saturday three Deputy Sheriffs made their appearance before the Baron at the New-York Hotel, when be was immediately arrested and taken to prison.

ALLEGED HOMICIDE IN NEWARK.

Louis Schaefer of No. 40 Kossuth-st., Newark, went into the saloon of Max Graff, No. 69 Kossuth-st. on Saturday sight, and was twice pushed out, and told not to enter again. He went in a third time, when Graff shoved him violently down the stoop steps. Schaefer fell heavily, and had his vertebræ broken, and died about 8 5. m. yesterday. Dr. bodd, the County Physician, viewed the body, and made a bost-mortem examination. Corner Lang will hold an inquest. Up to 10 last night no arrest was made. The deceased leaves a wife and two children.

MURDER AND ROBBERY IN HOBOKEN.

John Cotte, late a resident of No. 3 Manhattan-st., Hoboken, disappeased on Monday last. It is stated that when he left he was in possession of a small sum of money, and this fact gave rise to suspicions that he had been robbed and murdered. Early on Saturday morning his body was found in the river near the trestle works of the Morris and Essex Railroad with the throat cut from ear to car, and bearing other marks of violence; the pockets of his clothing were also turned inside out. Coroner White will hold an inquest.

Taspcott's shipping office was broken into on Friday morning last, and two safes blown open. The police are engaged in the case, but it seems that the headquarters authorities had not heard of the affair up OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

BASE-BALL

The home-and-home game between the Star and Mutual Clubs, played on Saturday, was of the most friendly character. The stars entered the contest with the belief that they would win, while the Mutuals were the belief that they would win, while the Mutuals were equally sanguine of success, and this feeling brought out a determination on both sides to make a strong effort. For all this, there sever was a better display of kindly feeling and gentlemanly conduct than that marking the meeting. The play was short and often sharp, though many errors were committed, chiefly on the part of the Stars. The game closed after one hour and 5s minutes play, with a score of 16 to 6 in favor of the Mutuals.

AOUATICS. YACHTING NOTES.

The Bayonne Club have indefinitely postponed their Club Regatta, which means that they will nave no more this year. It is doubtful if any of our numerous yacht clubs will give further regattas before next Summer. In the meantime individual races will take place. At present there are several small matches on hand, and many large ones in contemplation. The best yacht racing of 1808 took place during the month of October, and from this fact it may be opined that the present meanth will be the liveliest of the year. For our first-class sloops and schooners the weather of October is generally the most favorable.

A DUTY NOT TO BE NEGLECTED.

In the Machinery Department of the American Institute Exhibition, there is an invention which is called "An Attachment for Steam-Boilers." This invention has been the result of many years' study and experiment. It has been placed on locomotives in daily use, and has been in use on stationary boilers for more than a year. The engineers and experts who have tested it concur in pronouncing the invention a success. It is claimed by the inventor that this device will equalize the temperature of the steam to within a few degrees of the temperature of the surface-water in any boiler, thus preventing the great, unequal expansion and destructive straining of the different parts of a boiler-the prolific cause of leaks, ruptures, and repair expenses. It also works automatically, with unfailing certainty, is cheap, simple and durable, can be readily placed on any ordinary boiler at moderate cost, and will prevent the possibility of disastrous explosions when perfectly applied, whether the water be high or low in a boiler. This comprehensive claim for this invention is conceded by experts and engineers who have used and tested it, and it is now for the first time placed on exhibition for the criticism of the engineers and experts of the Institute and of the country. The frightful explosion and its attendant horrors and deaths, at the Indiana State Fair on Friday last, make it a duty of the American Institute, not to be evaded, that an immediate and conclusive examination and test be made of this invention, and, if it will do what it is claimed that it will, it is invaluable, and its discoverer a benefactor of his kind. If it will not do so, let that fact be known, so that further investigations and discoveries in this direction may be made.

THE DOTY WASHING MACHINE.

I have had one of them in use in my family from the first day of their public sale, and it gives me from the first day of their public sale, and it gives me real pleasure to bear testimony to their great excellence, use, and value. There is no mistake about them. They perform all the work that is claimed for them by the makers. I have recommended and caused to be sold a dezen or more of these machines to my friends since we first used ours. They, like so many others, were afraid of them at first, but now say with me, and all who have used Doty's machine, that they would not be without it for a thousand dollars. As they would not be without it for a thousand dollars. As every word of this is true, I put my name to the testi-mony for the benefit of my other Chicago friends and the public who may not be acquainted with the machine. GEORGE S. PHILLIPS, Associate Editor Chicago Tribune.

ROBBERY OF THE NORWALK BANK.

Burglars last night broke into the Norwalk Bank and pretty thoroughly "cleaned out" that institution. A quantity of burglars tools and the remains of powder were evidences of the means employed. The capital of the bank is $300,000. The bank had just been provided with a new safe, and also new locks, of the most approved kind. The outer door was forced open with instruments, and the safe blown open with powder—the doors of the outer and infer vault being first blown open. The heavy iron door of the inner vault lay out upon the floor—showing that several men were employed in moving it. The bank—one of the Nationals—kept its spare funds in New York, to check against; and the plunder of the thieves consisted in the currency and bonds on hand, and the avails of the private boxes. Of the latter there were ten. The largest deposit in them was that of Mr. Elenezer Hill, the President of the bank, who had a deposit of $70,000 in a tin box, from which he had fortunately taken $10,000, saferday. Mr. Beard had $10,000, Mr. Jesse Smith $10,000, and other parties various smiss of $5,000 to $10,000, making in all $10,000 in private boxes that was taken. Two other parties had large deposits of silver, and these, for some reason, were not disturbed. Burglars last night broke into the Norwalk that was taken. Two other parties had large deposits of silver, and these, for some reason, were not disturbed. One trank, containing silverware and gold, was not opened. The bank's loss is $42,000 in currency, and about $50,000 in bonds and securities, purpages a little less. The bank is liable for some of the stolen securities which were piedged as collaterals. A package of $6,000 in securities belonging to the Norwalk Fire Insurance Company was not taken. Detectives from New York were promptly telegrapined for, and it is hoped the rogues will be traced. The bargiars fied in haste, leaving their tools on the floor.

THE NEW PASTOR OF THE CHURCH OF THE

MESSIAH. Yesterday morning, at the Church of the Messiah, the Rev. George H. Hepworth, late paster of the Church of the Unity in Boston, and the successor of the Rev. S. Osgood, preached his opening sermon. The attendance was good, despite the muddy streets and pouring rain, and the sermon throughout was one of marked excellence. Mr. Hepworth, who is a man of commanding presence with a pleasant, kindly face, selected as the text for his morning's discourse the 10th chapter and 7th verse of the Gospel of St. Matthew: "And as ye go preach, saying, The Kingdom of Heaven is at hand."

for his morning's discourse the 10th chapter and 7th verse of the Gospel of St. Matthew:

"And as ye go presch, saying, The Kingdom of Heaven is at hand."

The work of the Christian ministry is not speculative, but practical. It is to heal the sick, to cleanse the leper, and, above all things, to tell the truth. It is the business of the pulpit to shrink from no unpleasant duty, to teach men concerning the beauty of holiness, and the darkness of crime and guilt. The truths which the Church represents are needed in our community as they were needed in Jerusalem. They are needed to-day as they were yesterday, that we may see how strong and how weak we are. So we come to ask what is the legitimate worth of the Christian ministry, and how shall it best accomplish its mission? For the last 300 years at least the church has been speculative in almost all its tendencies. While it has had a fringe of charity the whole garmont has been theological. It has tried in vain to form a creed upon which all men can agree. It is unwilling to-day to admit the fact that as our faces, our educations, our souls are different, so the forms which the same religious idea must take upon itself must be different. We must needs have denominations and sects varying like the hase of the rambow, and yet blending all to make one perfect Christian picture. It is very curious but the church has been for many a century trying to tell men how to get away from the world, and not how to live in it. The Catholic church has accomplished its mission literally, and its words of highest praise are given to those who turn their backs upon all social intercourse, and upon all worldly ambitions, upon all appetities of the body, and live their poor, dreary life in the cloister. The Protestant Church, make to go to such a length, accomplishes its work by staying in the midst of the world for six days, and then insisting upon it that within the sacred retreat which tell poor, dreary life in the cloister. The Protestant Church, has because of the underly influ breath in talking about questions that can never be settled, when the moaning world is crying for food! Did Jesus ever construct a system of theology! These things were too small for his consideration. He put them on one side, and simply went about doing good, healing the lepers, raising the dead, putting his hands in blessing on little children, and pointing the way to heaven through the darkness and gloom of the grave. He preached the Aimighty God as the fact in every man's life. He spared not the money-changers because they were rich; but he pointed the finger of scorn, not because they were money-changers, but because they were dishonest, and he then told them to lay up treasures in Heaven, which neither moth nor rust can corrupt, where thieves cannot break through and steai. Jesus was the poor man's friend. When your heart is almost breaking with soffering, God's love is all about you. No matter what the world gives or takes, so you are true to yourself, and to high Heaven, it is well, and in the end the peace of God shall be over us. The speaker concluded: Christian friends, it seems to me that I have detailed the true idea which a religious organization ought to represent. I have told you that it should be in sympathy, not merely with the highest thought of the arc, but also with the highest and noblest work of the time. I have said that its chief mission is to elevate human kind, to throw light where there is darkness, and I know well enough that you will bear me out in future so long as our friendship and union last, if with eternal things I dare to speak the truth concerning myself, concerning you, and concerning the work. And I am not wrong in the belief that you will stand by my side, and go with me as I try to send the influence of this Christian organization into cerning the work. And I am not wrong in the benefit hat you will stand by my side, and go with me as I try to send the influence of this Christian organization into those parts of your own city and of the country at large where men are really sitting in darkness, and without the faith which hath made you and me free. If we are free men let us proclaim our liberty, and let us carry the giad tidings of great joy into those homes, and into those haunts and dens, where there is no love and no prayer. At the conclusion of the service Mr. Hepworth cordially

THE REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER ON RICHES. Notwithstanding the storm yesterday morning crowds of people attended service at Plymouth Church, Brooklyn. Mr. Beecher read his text from Mathew, 6th chapter, 19th and 20th verses;

The desire to lay up property is a distinguishing difference between the human and animal nature. Up to a certain point the pursuit of wealth is made by Providence a means for obtaining happiness and prosperity. There is a general impression among men that riches can make one perfectly happy if they are not misused. Others think that they alone are not expable of making a man truly happy. So they are beginning to think over the way the Wallst.) Some of the best men on this continent are found in New-York, Hoston, Philadelphia, and in Washington. The nearer a man lives to heli, if he is good, the better he is. There are as good men in Wallst, as ever breathed, but they don't walk in platoons. It means something for a virtuous man to be upright in the midst of temptation. Many of you are here while the banks, are closed, and you agree with the gospel that riches are good while they do not go higher than the pocket. People listen to sermous with great interest on Sunday, but the next day they ridicale them, and not unfrequently they say, "My minister teld me that riches make men unhappy; well, I think that I can bear a great many troubles for a half a million. I know that the pursuit of wealth is dangerous, but I like danger." The Lord does not teach that to seek riches is wicked, but that the lovers of truth and of happiness cannot be filled by riches alone. The divine commandment is: First seek the Kingdom of Heaven, and all the rest shall be added. The treasures spoken of by Christ, are not such treasures as men run after in Wallst. They are not left behind when we leave tha world, but they always go with us. Death is a great strainer, and all of the riches of men are left at the grave. Neither gold nor the appetites can be carried through. Men walk as Rings dewn to the dust, but as beggars thereafter. Reason is a part of immortality and it will extend beyond the portals of death. As we have trained the mind here, so we shall begin with it in the other life. No person who has ever made his higher nature resoludent here, will ever lose it in hide his good works, even on earth. He might have well attempt to put the sun in a dark laintern. Aspiration is vital. It is that which tends to make a thought larger, to lead a man There is a general impression among men that riches can make one perfectly happy if they are not misused. Others think that they alone are not capable of making

SERMON ON GOLD GAMBLING. Rev. H. D. Northrup, who preached yesterday in the West Twenty-third-st. Presbyterian Church, nnnounced the following words as his text : "But they that will be rich fall into temptation and a sasre and into only foolish and hurtful lusts which drown men in destruction and perdi-

How many in New-York do you suppose believe that? christian men believe it, but the majority of men had rather take the risk of the temptation, the snare, and the perdition, than not to have the riches. They think this is a false alarm, they do not consider it real. In fact there is nothing real to them except money, and this opinion they hold in the very teeth of some of the plaines Christian men believe it, but the majority of men had rather take the risk of the temptation, the snare, and the looking beneath the surface of things, that there are latent causes, lying deep and far away sometimes, which will account for all that financial distress that overtakes men. In the confusion and excitement we are apt to see only what lies on the surface, forgetting that the actors in the play come from behind the scenes. When a man has an eruption, and is nothing but a solid seab from head to foot, you see only the hard, crusty blotches that cover him. But there is something within—something lying deep concealed to account for all that. We hear the crash when fortunes fall, and see the ruins; but back of all there are causes steadily at work producing the inevitable result. The evil that crops out on the surface comes from the evil within. For some of these causes we shall search. The preacher then discussed the causes of these financial convulsions, charging them on an utter incapacity for business; on the extravagance of the people; on an inordinate love of pleasure, and a too great haste to be rich. He exhorted all to put a lower estimate on wealth and a higher estimate on better things, and this he prescribed as a remedy for this the heated fever for gold. He closed by picturing a vision of Wall-st. desolate, offices closed, and the men who elamored loudly in the street for money passing in the hearse to Greenwood. He said the time was not far distast when the Wall-st. of to-day would be silent.

GOLD GAMBUING AND ITS EFFECTS. At the State-st. Congregational Church, Brooklyn, last evening, the pastor, the Rev. M. P. Gaddis, preached a discourse from E20dus 23. 1 and 16: Thou shall not raise a false report: pts not thine hand with the wicked to be an unrighteous witness. And the feet of harrest, the first fenits of he laborers, which then hast sown in the design and the feat of incathering, which is in the end of the year went thou hast gathered in hy labors out of the field.

He began by saying that it was with great reluctance that he had announced a discourse upon the subject, that he had announced a discourse upon the subject, having resolved to preach nothing from his pulpit but Christ. But there comes a time when men and things must be dealt with and held up for example. He compared the American people to the Israelites to whome God had spoken the words of the text. So long as they obeyed His commands they prospered, but when through long prosperity they became neglectful, the wrath of God descended, and they were made an abhorrence. He said that he would love to ring mot the ears of the American people the words, "On: people of America, be grateful to God. When the sin of ingratitude enters into the hearts of men they fall, as the results of the last few days attested. If it be justifiable to strike down the foes of the country who, daring the war, were treasonable, it was doubly so to strike down those who now, from their thirst for gold, were bringing ruin upon their country. Which did we dread the most, the rattlessnake, which gives warning before the strike, or the viper who, lying hid in the grass, unawares poisons us by its deadily fangs. Like the viper, he said, were these gold gamblers, who, to enlarge their own gains, had blasted the financial state of America. God's curse had descended upon them, and, as they walked the streets, people would point at them and say, there goes one who owned all his wealth in the rain of his country. The preacher pictured the farmer, who, after selling the fruits of the harvest, had invested in a new suit of clothes, but was astonished at the heavy bill that was handed him, and exclaimed that it was more than he had received for all his crops, and asked why the goods were so high, and received in answer, because of the high price of gold m Wall street. He was but one of the many who from ocean to ocean feit the great evil. In conclusion the preacher urged his hearers to beware of the undue love of gold and of the things of this life, being assured that they could carry none away with them, but to lay up treasures in heaven, and to seek fir having resolved to preach nothing from his pulpit but DEDICATION OF THE FIRST REFORMED CHURCH.

RROOKLYN, E. D.

The new edifice, just completed, for the First Reformed Church, Williamsburgh, was opened for divine service yesterday, and notwithstanding the disagreeable state of the weather, the audience at morning and evening services was very large. The church is on the corner of Bedford-ave, and Clymer-sts, on seven lots which were purchased by the congregation in 1808 for $18,000. It is built of Philadelphia pressed brick, with Nova Scotia stone trimmings of the Romanesque style. The frontage is as feet on Bedford-ave, by 118 feet on Clymer-st., with a tower 190 feet high, containing a fine-toned beli. A chapel and school-rooms are building in the rear of the church, the size of which is 36x95 feet and to cost $15,000. The church has a new system of heating and ventilation. On the floor in each pew is a register of open wire-work, connected by air chambersfunder the floors with a main shaft opening upwards from the foundation in the rear of the building. The six reflectors along the center of the ceiling by which the church is to be lighted, also connect with the main shaft by means of air chambers in the roof, so arranged as to warm the building is cold weather, and to carry off all i foul air in Summer. There are seatings for 924 persons in the body of the clurch, and a gallery runs along both sides. The pews are all of black walnut, those in the gallery being divided into boxes by light open railings. Each box contains flue of Bedford-ave, and Clymer-sts, on seven lots which were into boxes by light open railings. Each box contains five chairs, and, what is new in church furnishing, a table. The front of the gallery is an open balustrade of black walnut. The church will seat altogether about 1,200 people. The organ stands in the loft over the entrance, and is a beautiful instrument in black walnut case. It was built by the Messrs. Jardine of New-York, contains 34 stops running through, some new, among which is the Vox Celestis, similar to that of the celebrated organ in the Madelaine, in Paris. There are also mechanical devices by which the performer while playing, has facilities for producing every variety of light and shade. The instrument cost $6,500. The entire cost of the church will be about $130,000. The architect is Mr. E. L. Roberts. The Rev. Elbert S. Porter, D. D., Pastor of the church, preached yeterday morning an eloquent discourse from Rev. xxi, 3 and 4. "Behold the Tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them." The subject was well adapted to the occasion, showing that the Church on earth should be a type of the Church in heaven, that all should strive to build the church of God in their hearts, and thus fulfill the divine command. This could be done by cultivating a largeness of heart, aiding those who were in trouble, having sympathy for the sorrows of others, acting the part of a good samaritan, having no narrow exclusiveness, being strengthened by good work, feeding the church of God, in all things showing forth His glory that they might attain to the heavenly church not made by man eternal in the beavens. The sormon in the evening was on the text "Let the Beauty of the Lord our God be upon us," Psalm xc., 17.

DEDICATION OF A GERMAN EVANGELICAL

The new church of the German Evangelical Association in Fifty-third-st., between Eighth and Ninthaves., the corner stone of which was laid on the 5th of July last, was dedicated yesterday with appropriate cer monies. The edifice, including a Sunday-School room, emonies. The edifice, including a Sunday-School room, is 65 feet in length by 35 feet in width, is built of brick, one story high, and cost $6,000. It is plainly though neatly furnished, and yesterday was handsomely decorated with flowers and trimmed with evergreens, etc. The church numbers 55 communicants, and the Sunday-School connected with it has over 100 scholars. The Rev. Mr. Deisher, a preacher of note in the denomination, is the pastor. The dedicatory sermon was preached by the Rev. F. Hoffman, Presiding Elder of the Eastern District, who chose for his text the last clause of the 7th verse of the 2d chapter of Haggai! "And I will fill this house with glory, saith the Lord of hosts." The speaker told his hearers what constituted the true glory of a house of worship, of the promises unde by God cencerning the duties of the people in order that God should fulfill his promise, their duties toward their pastor, and his duties both toward God and them. At the conclusion of Mr. Hoffman's sermon the Rev. F. Meyers of Hazleton read the dedicatory articles from the Church Discipline, and the singing of a hymn concluded the ceremonies. In the afternoon, at the function, Penn., and the Rev. Mr. Deems, pastor of the Church of the Strangers, made a few remarks, Intended more especially for the Sunday School children present. In the evening there was preaching by the Rev. Mr. Meyers of Hazleton.

WHAT IS MAN?

Yesterday morning the Rev. T. T. Kendricks, easter of the Church of the Pilgrims, on West Fortyighth-st., delivered a lecture on the above subject, at ompanion to his discourse a week before on the subject f "Woman." The church was well filled, in spite of the bad weather, and the speaker was closely followed by his audience. He referred to the history of the world to show that although man has been carefully studied by the wise of all ages, he is still imperfectly understood. He does not understand his physical economy, and the mysteries of mind and soul are far beyond the range of his comprehension. He is not what he once was, and what his Creator designed him to be. He has wornly deteriorated. Even in bodily health and vigor he is no longer the glorious creature whom God intended to cujoy a never-ending existence, exempt from the diseases and afflictions that have burdened humanity ever since the fail. The speaker urged upon his hearers the duty which every man owes to his species and to God to cievate humanity, physically, mentally, and morally, and closed by claiming for the grace of God the power to bring man once more up to the standard of purity which made our first parents equal to the angels On next Sunday morning Mr. Kendricks will lecture on the "Inspiration of the Bible," and in the evening on "Bad Company." The concert and exhibition of the Sunday-School will take place on the evening of Wednesday, the Eith inst., the proceeds to be applied to the enlargement of the library.
